Roosevelt Approves Constitution Of Philippines

PLEBESCITE IN ISLANDS IS ASSURED

Filipino Leaders Indicate New Government to Be Inaugurated on Nov. 15
STATEMENT IS ISSUED
Under Terms on Bill Filipinos Will Have Own Chief Executive Soon

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today approved the constitution of the commonwealth of the Philippines, opening the way for a plebiscite in the island on the adoption of their semi-autonomous government.

The ceremony of certifying that the constitution drawn up in Manila "conforms substantially with the provisions" of the independence act adopted last year occupied in the presence of Governor-General Frank Murphy, Manuel L. Quezon, president of the constitutional convention, Claro M. Recto, and other distinguished Filipinos and Americans.

Filipino leaders indicated they intended to inaugurate the new government on Nov. 15, 1935, and hoped to achieve complete independence on July 4, 1946. The American flag will continue to fly over the Philippines until the transition period is completed and American sovereignty ended.

President Roosevelt issued the following statement in connection with the certification by him of the commonwealth constitution: "I am happy to state that the constitution submitted to me on behalf of the Philippine constitutional convention for certification under the Tydings-McDuffie independence act conforms with the provisions of the act."

"The members of the convention are congratulated on the satisfactory completion of a task so important and significant in the life of their people."

CALIFORNIA BANDIT TO LEARN FATE SOON

CHICAGO, March 23.—(UP)—John Paul Chase returned to the witness stand in federal court today with a prospect that his trial on charges of murdering a federal agent will be concluded this morning, although it may not go to the jury until Monday.

He is accused of participating with George (Baby Face) Nelson, slain Dillinger gang member, in killing Federal Agent Herman E. Hollis and Inspector Samuel Crowley in a roadside battle near Barrington, Ill., last November.

The young California gambler and bootlegger staged his entire defense on a plea of self defense. He said Hollis and Crowley opened fire on him, Nelson and Nelson's wife without revealing their identity.

WOMAN HUNTS FOR BANDITS IN MEXICO

EL PASO, Tex., March 23.—(UP)—A young American woman rode alone today to the rescue of a friend held by bandits in the hills of Mexico.

Mrs. Louis Kennedy, 29, blonde San Francisco widow, hoped to effect the release of Louis F. Vensmak, Santa Barbara, Cal., mining engineer held for $2800 ransom.

Vensmak and Mrs. Kennedy, in Mexico to search for buried treasure, were kidnapped March 5 near Jalpa, Zacatecas.

The bandits released Mrs. Kennedy to raise the ransom money. She went to Los Angeles and returned here, to undertake her solitary and dangerous mission of rescue.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS CALLED ON BY HERBERT HOOVER TO REJUVENATE THEIR PARTY

SACRAMENTO, March 23.—(UP)—Young Republicans, organized to revitalize the party along liberal and humanitarian lines, assembled here today for the second annual convention of the California Republican assembly.

Enthusiasm over a long message from former President Hoover, in which he called upon the youth of the party to save the nation from un-American government, the younger element hoped to start a movement that will result in California swinging back to Republican ranks in the 1936 presidential election.

Keynote speaker on the assembly program was Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., who was scheduled to arrive by plane later today on the first leg of a national tour made for the purpose of surveying the political picture in preparation for the next campaign.

His address will be the highlight of a banquet held in his honor tonight.

Organization meetings throughout the day will have as their aim the formulation of a platform pledging social security, old age pensions, health insurance, stabilization of employment and a shorter working week. The assembly also will consider the possibility of consolidating other independent Republican organizations behind a formidable drive.

PATMAN BONUS STATE SOLONS BILL GOES TO MARK TIME ON UPPER HOUSE ROUTINE BILLS

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(UP)—The Patman $2,000,000,000 currency expansion bonus bill was added to the senate finance committee's crowded calendar today with a promise by Democratic leaders that it would receive prompt consideration.

A presidential veto is expected if it is approved by the senate. Injecting the bonus issue into debate on the $4,830,000,000 work relief bill, Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., threatened to offer the Patman proposal as a "rider" to the relief measure. Administration forces were confident of defeating such a plan.

Chairman Pat Harrison, D., Miss., said his finance committee would conduct limited hearings before acting on the Patman bill. He said he believed the senate would pass a bonus measure, and would uphold a presidential veto.

An effort will be made to eliminate inflationary features and adopt the Vinson-American Legion bill which lost by three votes in the house. That measure would leave to the treasury to find the money necessary for bonus payments.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings, D., Md., will attempt to substitute his "compromise" plan to give veterans three per cent government bonds in exchange for their service certificates. Offered in the house by Rep. John J. Cochran, D., Mo., it was crushed by a vote of 328 to 82.

The Patman bill never has received senate approval and there is doubt of its adoption at this session if it is put forward in its present form.

The overwhelming vote—318 to 90—by which the house finally approved a bonus payment made it apparent that administration leaders would have difficulty in obtaining support for a veto in the lower chamber.

CONCILIATORS SEEK TO SETTLE DISPUTE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—(UP)—Ace conciliators of the federal department of labor, E. P. Marsh and E. H. Fitzgerald, plunged into the middle of a West Coast sailors' union strike today in an effort to prevent its spread to general proportions.

Marsh and Fitzgerald arrived by airplane to attempt negotiations to end the strike of union seamen and licensed personnel employed aboard oil tankers operated by Pacific coast firms.

As they entered the picture, with their chief, Madame Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, watching quietly from near-by Berkeley, the situation was this:

Two thousand two hundred men, members of three unions, were on strike, and a fourth union, composed of barge workers, was to conduct a strike call at a meeting Sunday.

Thirty-one tankers were tied up between Alaska and Mexico. One contained oil needed for U. S. naval purposes in Manila.

SENATE PASSES WORK RELIEF BILL UNDER INFLATION PLAN

Expansion Amendment Gets Okay

Action of Measure Speeded Up Before Return of Sen. Huey Long

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(UP)—The $4,830,000,000 work-relief bill carrying a potential billion dollars in inflation, was passed by the senate today after an aggressive drive by administration leaders had swept away the last of the serious obstacles. The vote was 68 to 16.

The works bill was approved by the senate after two months of controversy, delays and partisan disputes, and before Sen. Huey P. Long, D., La., could return to the capital to offer further obstructions.

The measure, desired by President Roosevelt to carry out his determination to have the government "get this business of relief" now goes to conference with the house, which passed it Jan. 24.

Just before the bill was passed the senate accepted an amendment by Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., under which the currency could be expanded $1,000,000,000.

No vote was taken and it was indicated it would be eliminated in conference. The administration chose that method rather than make a fight which would have meant another long delay.

The bill as passed by the senate, with the exception of the Thomas amendment, is acceptable to the White House and can be used to carry out the president's original intentions of transferring 3,500,000 persons from direct relief to work-relief projects.

The final scenes in the senate as it acted on the huge appropriation bill were dramatic but were played before only partially filled galleries.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., as a compromise after the senate had tabled his original plan for mandatory purchase of 50,000,000 ounces of silver each month, was accepted as a means of lessening debate and bringing the bill to a vote.

It may be removed later in conference.

Speed Up Action

Senate leaders, exasperated at long delays which the works bill has encountered, were using every effort to pass the measure this afternoon.

The inflation amendment was jammed through without even a voice vote.

Vice President John N. Garner, taking the chair, repeated after the clerk had concluded reading a speech by Senator Thoms D. Schall, and declared:

"Without objection the amendment is agreed to."

He then called for a vote on passage of the bill, but Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, offered an amendment to provide for issuance of "greenbacks" to cover the most of the works appropriation.

The Thomas amendment provided:

SECURITY IS STRESSED BY MRS. PERKINS

Secretary of Labor Talks at Charter Day Program at Berkeley

BERKELEY, Cal., March 23.—(UP)—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today appeared as a University of California charter day speaker and emphasized that major industries must provide work on terms that will enable a man to live as a result of his work.

Madame Perkins appeared unperturbed by a protest registered against her appearance by a prominent California woman graduate, who called the secretary a "mere politician," not as worthy as other prominent women to speak at the annual university function.

The subject of the secretary's address was "The Status of Labor in Modern Society."

"A man's work should enable him to live with a sense of security in the future, with provisions for old age, illness, for his children against the untimely death of the bread winner," said Secretary Perkins.

"The public prefers work to be provided by the initiative of private individuals, rather than by money allowances from public sources," Madame Perkins declared. She said that to hold America to the middle course of a democratic system, the growth of labor unions should be encouraged. The advantages which might flow to society in collective bargaining are unpredictable, she said.

"It must be regarded as among the major purposes of any industry to provide work on terms that will enable a man to live as a result of his work," Madame Perkins emphasized.

The secretary was attired in academic cap and gown as were alumni, students and faculty of the university. A feature of the charter day exercises came when former President Herbert Hoover; Jane Addams, of Hull House; Madame Perkins, and Joseph Cummings Rowell, university architect, were awarded honorary degrees.

MELLON CONFIDENT OF REAL RECOVERY

PITTSBURGH, March 23.—(UP)—Andrew W. Mellon is confident that the nation will emerge unharmed from the troubles now besetting it, he said in a formal statement on the eve of his 60th birthday.

The former secretary of the treasury would not comment on the present hearing at which the federal government seeks $3,000,000 more 1931 income taxes, and he seeks a $139,900 refund.

Mellon recalled that when he was 75, he said he found life "full and interesting," and added that he still found it so.

"America is going through a bad quarter of an hour," Mellon's statement said, "but eventually, with courage, faith and effort, the country will come out all right."

BARBARA HUTTON SAILS

SOUTHAMPTON, March 23.—(UP)—Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani sailed for New York on the liner Bremen today to arrange the preliminaries for a Reno divorce from her Georgian nobleman husband, Prince Alexis Mdivani.

Princess Barbara motored from London with her cousin, J. W. Donahue of New York City, and a United Press correspondent.

She left the Dorchester hotel, London, by a basement entrance in order to avoid waiting photographers and newspaper men, and took pains to avoid them at Southampton.

As the ship sailed, Princess Barbara waved goodbye from a window to those on the dock.

ROBOT PLANE'S PILOT RESIGNS FROM HIS POST

Irked at Refusal of Sanction for 2000 Mile Flight to Hawaii

OAKLAND, Cal., March 23.—(UP)—The crew which was to have manned a robot plane on a flight to Honolulu and return, were separate ways today, parted apparently by controversy over the refusal of the U. S. Department of Commerce to approve the transpacific flight.

The "blow-off" came soon after the crew returned last night from an all-day test flight in a rainstorm 365 miles west of San Francisco.

Major Chester A. Snow, in charge of the mystery plane, announced his resignation from a post in the Bureau of Aeronautics, Department of Commerce, Capt. Clayton Bissell, U. S. Army Air Corps, announced he was returning immediately to Honolulu.

Charles Snyder, a commerce department expert, said he was withdrawing from the crew.

None of the three would comment on the reasons for their actions but it was well known that Snow especially had been irked by inability to receive final sanction for a 2400-mile flight which the men manning the Douglas air liner, equipped with a radio directional compass and a robot pilot equipment, were ready and anxious to make.

"I never believed a flight to Honolulu would have been more than a stunt but I am firm in the opinion that we could have learned a lot about radio compass and robot plane operations in a longer trans-ocean hop," Snow was quoted as saying.

Once during the three weeks the tests have been under way the plane was on the line, ready to go. Sandwiches were stored aboard and 1500 gallons of gasoline were in the tanks of the dual-motored monoplane in which Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker several months ago set a new transcontinental speed record.

A last-minute weather report delayed the take-off. Unfavorable weather was supposed to have been the cause of further delays but finally it was learned that Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper and his chief subordinates would not approve the long flight.

Capt. Alfred W. Hegenberger, who was to have been navigator for the flight, and Major Jones, a radio expert, alone remained on the ground. They awaited further orders while the plane rested in a hangar at the Oakland airport.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS UP FISHING JAUNT

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(UP)—President Roosevelt's proposed trip to Florida for a rest is being held in abeyance pending outcome of the very critical illness of White House Secretary Louis McHenry Howe.

The president originally had intended to leave tonight for about a 10-day stay in Florida waters. But he put aside all thoughts of immediate departure and remained close to the bedside of Howe, his political adviser for a quarter of a century or more.

ARGUE HAUPTMANN APPEAL NEXT FALL

TRENTON, N. J., March 23.—(UP)—Eight days ago seven men were in the death house of States prison. Today there were three, Bruno Richard Hauptmann last night watched the fourth man disappear through the little door leading to the chair, through which he himself must go unless courts intervene.

Today Hauptmann talked to John Favorita and James Williams, negro. He will watch them go to death, too. Last night he shook hands with Keith Barth, 22, a German, said, "Trust in God." Barth died for murder committed during a hold-up.

Birth Rate In California Is Increasing

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 23.—(UP)—For the first time in 10 years California's birth rate is increasing.

A report of the state department of public health revealed 78,442 births registered in California last year as compared with 75,229 in 1923, a gain of 3,213. The birth rate per 1000 population increased from 12.4 to 12.7.

In Orange county there were 1787 births in 1934 and 1734 the previous year, the report stated.

Vital statistics show that California birth rate increased steadily to a peak of 19.7 in 1924, and since that time has decreased every year until 1934.

ARMY CLASS OF 1911 IN ITALY IS MOBILIZED

Order Announced Following Speech by Mussolini; to Be Prepared

ROME, March 23.—(UP)—Italy today mobilized the entire army class of 1911.

The Italian army will approximate 600,000 men in consequence. The announcement came immediately after a forceful speech by Premier Benito Mussolini to thousands of his Fascist black-shirted masses in the Venice Square.

"Let it be clear," he shouted. "Our desire for peace and European collaboration is above all backed up by several millions of steel bayonets."

At another point he said: "I desire to say to the whole Italian people that no event whatsoever will find us unprepared."

The call to the colors takes in all Italians born in 1911 who are now around 24. Two divisions of these men were called to the colors during the Abyssinian crisis.

Only on Thursday, Mussolini decided to return to the army the 1911 class, which normally would be released April 1. On April 1, also, the new class of 1914 will report for a year's compulsory service.

It was explained that retention of the 1911 men were due to the political situation.

Today's call was explained as precautionary.

It involves about 160,000 men—those of the 1911 class who were not mobilized for the Abyssinian crisis. It was recalled that when the Abyssinian mobilization was decided upon, two new home divisions were formed to replace them.

A brief dramatic communique gave the news of today's call. It said:

"The head of the government in this capacity as minister of the armed forces has ordered a call to arms of the entire class of 1911. The measure is of a precautionary character."

SAID FRENCH BRITISH PROPOSALS FOR PEACE MUST BE CHANGED BY CRISIS

FRANCE TONED DOWN

Sir John Simon to Speak for Britain Only When He Meets With Hitler

PARIS, March 23.—(UP)—The tri-party conversations among France, Great Britain and Italy, ended at 5:10 p. m. It was said a three-power meeting was set for April 11 at Stresa, Italy.

(Copyright 1935 by United Press)

PARIS, March 23.—(UP)—France at an allied conference today held that Germany's rearmament decrees nullifies French-British proposals for consolidation of peace, it was said authoritatively.

Pierre Laval, foreign minister, it was said, made the statement at the outset of a conference with Anthony Eden, British privy seal, and Elio Suvich, Italian foreign under-secretary.

While the conference was proceeding, the supreme council of national defense met under President Albert LeBrun at the Elysee palace. Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin was called hastily to the meeting.

Laval, it was asserted, told Britain and Italy it would be necessary to seek a new basis of discussion with Germany.

The conference, an important preliminary to the talks which Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, will have with Adolf Hitler Monday and Tuesday, began at 11:15 a. m.

Sir George Clerk, British ambassador, accompanied Eden, Alexis Legation secretary of the foreign office, assisted Laval.

The French-British proposals to which Laval referred were those of February 3 for general consolidation of European peace. They have been the basis for all talk since. They envisage Germany's re-entrance to the League of Nations, her adherence to eastern European and Danubian security treaties, and her participation in an aerial defense treaty.

It was indicated that Laval had as a threat the possibility that France might oppose a formal meeting of the foreign ministers of Great Britain, Italy and France until the League of Nations council, at an emergency meeting set for the first week in April, considered the proposals.

MRS. PERKINS GIVEN SNUB AT BERKELEY

BERKELEY, Cal., March 23.—(UP)—Disregarding a snub by a prominent alumna who called her a "mere politician," Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, prepared today to address a University of California gathering at charter day exercises.

The snub came from Miss Martha Hams, secretary of the University Class of 1901, who believed that other women were more worthy of the honor of being the first of their sex invited to speak at the annual exercises.

Miss Hams, Berkeley resident, refused to act as a hostess at an alumni association dinner honoring the cabinet official tonight.

Hope abandoned as Louis Howe sinks

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(UP)—Development of pleurisy in Louis McHenry Howe's left lung in addition to other complications caused physicians today to abandon all hope for his recovery.

Howe, senior secretary to President Roosevelt for 25 years, has been seriously ill for more than two weeks, suffering a combination of bronchial trouble and heart weakness.

Relatives summoned here when his condition became critical a week ago remained near his White House bedside.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(UP)—House conferees agreed today to accept a Senate amendment to the $400,000,000 war department appropriation bill authorizing an increase of 46,250 men in the army.

The conference report must be approved by both houses before final passage. It provides an increase in the army from 118,750 men to 165,000.

BAY MEADOWS TRACK, Cal., March 23 (UP)—Top Row was scratched from the $25,000 Bay Meadows handicap at noon today, leaving seven horses to run the big feature event.

creases unless they were absolutely essential.

May Drop Tax

Indication that the lower house may approve Democratic demands to eliminate the sales tax on food. This is opposed by the administration unless a substitute revenue producer is devised.

Assembly approval of a bill to exempt self-help cooperatives from paying the gasoline tax. This was the first of the cooperative aid measures to receive formal action, and the lower house vote was regarded as a victory for the liberals.

Committee meeting developments included the following:

Assembly committee approval of a bill to establish a state prison in southern California.

Assembly committee approval of a bill to legalize greyhound racing, permitting pari-mutuel betting, on the same basis as horse racing.

Refusal of a senate committee to recommend a bill to establish self-help cooperative depots throughout the state. This must be fought out on the floor.

New regulations for sardine fishermen and the handling of striped bass.

Assembly committee approval of $6-hour work week bills.

Dodging by the senate motor vehicle committee, of the ever-present proposal to eliminate speed laws and stress the curbing of reckless driving. The bill was given to a sub-committee for study.

Unless members continue to delay consideration of important bills, some of the controversial bills will be up for action before the assembly and senate next week.

COMPTON PROTESTS CONFERENCE OUSTER

FULLERTON, March 23.—Following the announcement that Compton junior college would be recommended for intrusions of Southern California junior college conference rules, Tartar officials stated they would present their side of the dispute before a meeting of jaycee heads here next Thursday.

In a statement issued yesterday by Milton Andrews, dean of men at Compton, the Tartars claim that Compton's action was not ineligibility; that Compton has never encouraged Los Angeles nor Long Beach athletes to participate for the Tartars; that Ed Dunbar, reserve guard, never played in San Pedro under his or any assumed name; and that the action taken by Western conference officials at their recent meeting at Pasadena was hasty, unfair and prejudiced.

Eastern as well as Western division officials will hear Compton's appeal at the Fullerton confab.

ALLIED CHIEFS LAUNCH PARIS MEETING TODAY

ered Germany's violation of the Versailles treaty.

There were 12 men at the first conference today.

At lunch time, the meeting was enlarged. Laval's guests included Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin, Edouard Herriot, minister without portfolio and left-wing leader; the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies, foreign affairs commissions, and additional experts.

It was regarded as significant that Finance Minister Germain-Martin was called into the defense council meeting. It was his job to tell the council means of financing the cost of enlarging the army and increasing the store of war materials.

The United Press learned that Anthony Eden, Britain's negotiator in the three-power conference, was charged with the mission of toning down France's angry reaction to German armament.

Britain fears that the increasing gravity of the situation may encourage the little entente nations—Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia—to start plans for mobilization, to be announced if Hungary or Bulgaria follows Germany's example in defying the peace treaty.

It was understood the conferees today agreed that Simon at Berlin should speak for Britain alone.

This would leave Britain free to work separately toward peace, and leave France free to hold over Germany the threat of condemnation of her rearmament by the league of nations council.

The conferees discussed the possibility, it was understood, that Germany, Poland and the little entente nations might be invited to the Comco conference. But it was only a possibility, inasmuch as it would entail acceptance by Germany of a condition that her direct action in violating the treaty is not to be accepted as a basis for discussion.

WORK OUT PLAN FOR PEACE OVER EUROPE

(Copyright 1935 By United Press)

LONDON, March 23.—(UP)—Great Britain today worked out a plan for a series of conferences which she hopes will turn Europe toward peace.

It was learned that Britain had asked that a scheduled conference of British, French and Italian foreign ministers be deferred until after April 4. It was believed in consequence that the meeting of the League of Nations council, fixed for the first week in April, would be postponed.

Under the British plan, it was indicated, the diplomatic situation would be worked out as follows:

1. Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, leaves for Berlin by airplane at 10:15 a. m. tomorrow for talks Monday and Tuesday with Adolf Hitler.

2. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, accompanies Simon, and then goes on alone to Moscow, Warsaw and Prague, returning to London April 4.

3. The foreign ministers meet, probably at Comco, in north Italy.

4. The League of Nations council may or may not take up the German crisis. The meeting has been called, by French demand. It is a French weapon against Germany, envisaging as it would the prospect of a vote denouncing Germany for treaty violation and entrapping all Germans.

There were reports that if all went well the Comco meeting would be followed by a big conference in London, with Germany, Britain, France, Italy, Russia and other countries represented, to do the real work of consolidating peace.

Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister, and a prime mover for European peace and friendship, is considering attending the Comco meeting despite his illness, it was learned. In that event Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin of France probably would attend. As Benito Mussolini is his own foreign minister, he also will be at the Comco meeting and the parley will become one of premiers as well as foreign secretaries.

BERT STARK GETS TERM IN FOLSOM

Bert Stark, 31, of Orange, convicted last week of grand theft, yesterday was sentenced by Superior Judge H. G. Ames to Folsom for a term of from one to ten years. Having served a previous term in San Quentin, Stark was sentenced to Folsom, where the second-termers are kept.

Stark and Cecil Moon were convicted at separate trials of taking $10 from C. E. Chilcoat, of Costa Mesa, in a brawl January 21.

Ralph E. Swigart was charged with non-support of four minor children at San Juan Capistrano in an information filed yesterday toward pulling the party out of the hands of reactionary leaders.

Meetings will continue tomorrow, with Governor Frank F. Merriam acting as host at a breakfast session.

Faces Crisis

Hoover declared that the Republican party faces its greatest crisis since the days of Abraham Lincoln, and called upon the youth of the party to save the nation from un-American government.

In a strongly worded message to the California Republican assembly, the former president broke a two-year political silence to demand a rejuvenation of the party and a unity of purpose in defense of American principles "jeopardized daily by regimentation and bureaucratic domination."

He exhorted the Democratic business, financial, labor and agricultural policies, and declared the people "pawns of a centralized and self-perpetuating government." He demanded a return to "economic common sense" and to the fundamental spirit of "free men and women."

The rebirth of the Republican party, he said, "transcends any interest of any group," and it is the young men and women of the party who must "give attention to the drift from national moorings."

INTENT TO WED NOTICE FILED BY PRISONER

Just sentenced to serve from one to five years at San Quentin for burglary, Alexander Espinosa, 27, of Anaheim, today was preparing to take to himself a wife before the prison doors clang shut behind him.

Their honeymoon will be spent with the bars of the county jail between them, as Espinosa awaits execution of the sentence passed upon him yesterday by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

Priscilla S. Rodriguez, 28, of 1181-2 West Adele street, Anaheim, the same address given by Espinosa, is the girl who has pledged her troth to the man about to be shut away from society.

She accompanied him to the marriage license bureau at the courthouse yesterday, after he had heard his fate decreed in the courtroom. They filed notice of their intention to marry, and will be eligible to apply for their license next Tuesday—if the bridegroom has not then been taken north to prison.

Espinosa was sentenced for burglary of the C. A. Muech liquor store in Anaheim. He is only a wild youngster, the court was told, with a predilection for bringing home "souvenirs" while drinking. Once he thus collected a communion set out of a church, it was reported.

Officials suggested that now, perhaps, Espinosa intends to marry and settle down.

A number of preliminary contests will be held in order to obtain entrants in the contests which will take place among the artists of the west when the show opens. More than 10,000 western beauticians will participate in the exhibit. Prizes will be given for successful innovations in all types of beautification.

WORK RELIEF BILL PASSED BY SENATORS

1. Issuance of silver certificates based on monetary value of silver stocks held in the treasury.

2. A requirement that all silver certificates be kept in circulation.

3. Trading of gold for silver and issuance of additional silver certificates.

4. Permission for the government to accept silver in settlement of international balances.

Thomas said he had been advised that the treasury was purchasing 50,000,000 ounces of silver monthly, and that, if the treasury continued at that rate, his original amendment was not necessary.

He estimated the immediate inflationary effect of $375,000,000 and the potential inflation at $1,000,000,000.

The way in which the Thomas amendment was slipped through indicated the administration probably would remove it in conference.

Thomas realized this situation, but believed he made progress even by getting his amendment in the senate version. He had expected its rejection, and it would have been defeated had the administration been willing to encounter the delays that would have accompanied a fight against it.

A WORD OF COMFORT

You believe that you are unselfish because you say that you would not recall to the burdens and heartaches of earth the one you love, merely to gratify your yearning for companionship and to ease your yearning.

You forget that it is selfish for you to dwell so constantly upon your own loneliness that you give meagre consideration to the wonderful joy of life that is yours. You walk gloomily along the path which should be bright with hope and joyous expectation.

Ask God to help you rejoice that your dear one lives with Him.

80 ACRE CITRUS GROVE SOLD AT $200,000 PRICE

Sale of an 80-acre orange grove near Placentia at the pre-depression price of $200,000, or $2500 per acre, was disclosed today with the recording of deeds to the property, purchased by John T. Lyon of Anaheim, from Edwin A. Stoddard and his wife, Ellen, of Beverly Hills. The deal is the largest reported in Orange county in recent years.

The grove is situated between North street and Anaheim avenue, and east of Krause street, formerly Dowling street. It comprises all of lot 16 in block K of the Kraemer tract, south of the town of Placentia.

The sale of agreement on file at the recorder's office reveals that the Stoddards retain a half-interest in the oil and mineral rights of the property for a period of ten years.

The agreement calls for a downpayment of $30,000, of which $10,000 was to be applied toward retirement of a $25,000 encumbrance upon the property. The Stoddards assume the balance of the encumbrance. Payments of not less than $6000 per year are required from Lyon on the balance of the purchase price.

FLAMING CAR PURSUED AFTER BEACH CRASH

J. V. DeVaul, 46, of 510 West Second street, Santa Ana, received a fine of $100 and had his drivers license suspended for 60 days in Judge A. J. Leonard's municipal court, Newport Beach, yesterday, on charges of drunken driving.

DeVaul, celebrating a new job, careened down Central avenue early yesterday morning in his heavy sedan, crashing into the railing of a temporary bridge over the outfall lines of dredgers at work in the bay, and drove out of the beach city at a high rate of speed, with his car in flames from the impact.

Many calls reporting his spectacular progress through the city came to the Newport city jail, and Officers S. E. Naylor and K. W. Gorton, of the beach force, took up the chase in a squad car. John Villie, at the Arches, reported that DeVaul had driven across the Coast Highway with flames streaming from the rear of his car.

Gorton and Naylor overtook the sedan after a six mile chase, a half mile north of the Santa Ana county club, and after extinguishing the blaze, returned DeVaul to Newport, where he was pronounced under the influence of liquor by a physician.

The "David" of peace who watches, through his office windows, the "Goliaths" of war, the war and navy departments at Washington, will appear before a Santa Ana audience next Tuesday evening when Frederick J. Libby, founder and executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, addresses the Santa Ana Valley Forum at 7:30 p. m. in Elbell clubhouse.

Libby's offices in the headquarters of the national peace organization are appropriately located in Washington opposite the war and navy building. From that vantage point he directs the activities of the organization he founded in October, 1921, when it was formed to promote success of the Washington arms limitation conference.

Libby, who makes 250 addresses a year in the interest of the council and its work, had extensive experience during and after the rebuilding of devastated areas, and following his return from abroad, dedicated his life to the prevention of war. He was executive secretary of the Friends Disarmament Council when the National Council for Prevention of War was formed as a clearing house for the activities of various national groups engaged in the peace movement.

A scion of Maine stock, graduated from Bowdoin college in 1894, he later studied at Berlin, Marburg and Oxford universities. Afterward he was pastor of the Union Congregational church at Magnolia, Massachusetts, for six years. From 1912 to 1929 he was a member of the faculty of Phillips-Exeter academy, except for a year's leave of absence while engaged in restoration work abroad.

He is expected to discuss work and objectives of the national council here Tuesday evening, dealing with "The World-Wide Struggle of Peace Against War."

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

RE-DEAL

A personal understanding is supposed to exist between Postmaster General Farley and the boss, whereby Sunny Jim will relinquish the postmaster generalship to handle the Roosevelt campaign for re-election next year.

The agreement is supposed to have been made casually and unofficially months ago. No time was set for the chance. It certainly will not be made at any time when Farley is under fire, even such non-run fire as Huey Long has been offering in the Senate. That much is certain.

In fact, for the sake of present appearances, it may be necessary for both Farley and the White House to continue to deny any such move is contemplated. After Long adjourns for the summer, they may come out with it.

The general assumption in Mr. Farley's inner circle is that he will not jump until fall at the earliest and next spring at the latest.

HESITATION

This explains why President Roosevelt has delayed so long in applying his political-official segregation rule to his political manager. You may recall that, months ago, he ordered all holders of party jobs and official government positions to sever one connection or the other. Amid silence at the White House and the post office, Farley has continued in both jobs.

At first, Farley thought that he would relinquish the national chairmanship and remain in the Cabinet. His pals say he liked the official life. Later he discovered the post office was dull. It operates in a routine way. He could live in the Fiji Islands and it would make little or no difference in the functioning of the mails.

Also, whatever patronage changes he could effect from his official position already have been effected. He cannot even give a stamp to a friend now.

NECESSITY

Apparently this would prevent Farley from realizing any secret ambitions he may have had to run for Governor of New York in '36. He cannot run for Governor and conduct the Presidential campaign at the same time. It is generally understood Mr. Roosevelt does not want to ruin Farley's governorship chances. But there is no one else to run the Presidential campaign.

SUCCESSOR

The old talk about Commerce Secretary Roper being switched to the Postmaster Generalship is being revived. No one else is being mentioned, at least not where anyone can hear it yet. Who will get Roper's job also seems to be undecided.

PUBLIC PRIVACY

A new place to hold private conferences has been discovered by Mr. Farley and RFC Chairman Jesse Jones. It is the last place you would think of—in a closed automobile at the curb on busy Pennsylvania avenue, outside of Jones' office. No place could be more public and at the same time more private. No one could listen in.

The choice of such an unusual spot by the two eminent New Dealers one morning this week has spurred considerable speculation as to what they were conferring about.

Until Jones tells, you will never know, which is not encouraging, because Jones never tells anything. If the gentleman on the roof of the car heard right, Farley will not want to tell. Farley always likes to keep patronage matters to himself, especially when his friends are involved.

SILVER

Mr. Morgenthau's new silver buying program means nothing new except that he has at last been able to find two nations to operate in a trade balancing idea he has had for months.

He buys their silver and pays them in gold theoretically, but not actually. They keep the gold on deposit here and use it to pay for goods bought from us. It is merely a device for equalizing their unfavorable trade balances by selling silver to us for goods.

It would be highly important if the amount involved were not so small. (The Mexican deal amounted to $120,000 and Guatemala to $85,000.) Also, it would be impressive significant if it could be worked with other larger nations. However, those which have the unfavorable trade balances do not have the silver and vice versa.

No other negotiations are pending.

PRESS-AGENTING

There was nothing subtle about Atlantic City's bid for the Democratic National Convention. It merely shouted Atlantic City to the world again before the start of the bathing season. The New Deal press agent system may have become good recently, but Atlantic City's always was good.

The decision on the convention site will be made a year from now. No one has given the matter any consideration, but several suggestions are now being offered.

One is that it be held on the White House lawn so as to have long distance telephone charges which always run up when a President runs his renominating convention from the executive mansion. Also, the secret service could keep Huey Long out.

BITTER

Stock Exchange opponents of the Whitney regime haven't given up the ship because of John W. Hanes' withdrawal as a candidate. Their hopes are now centered in Charles R. Gay of Whitehouse & Co. Mr. Gay was originally something of a compromise candidate. His house had taken no part in the squabble between Exchange authorities and the Association of Stock Exchange firms. But circumstances have forced him to a rather awkward and unsought position as banner bearer for the rebel element.

If he should follow Hanes' example the rebels would be sunk. The Whitneyites know that, too. So he's under heavy pressure both to make the race and to abandon it.

The Stock Exchange is no longer washing its linen in public. But there's plenty of bitterness under the surface. Leaders of the rebellion privately fear reprisals if they lose. They can't forget the specialist who took a public stand for something the authorities didn't want—and promptly found himself surrounded by a bunch of competitive specialists in the same stock.

DELAY

Informed New Yorkers do not believe FDR's victory on work relief means that he has captured control of Congress. They look for a period of blistering oratory and legislative inaction with a raft of bills jammed up at the close of the session.

Their scouts report that both liberals and conservatives in Congress are stalling deliberately in administration measures. The liberals are jockeying for White House support of the Wagner Labor bill and other left wing proposals. Conservatives are trying to tie up Mr. Roosevelt's reform program—especially the banking and utility bills—as long as they can. By delaying action they hope either to smother those bills in the last minute rush or to force sweeping modifications as the price of passage. These tactics have the warm approval of many New York leaders.

QUESTION

Financial and business sentiment is less worried by the Washington impasse than you'd think from all the talk about setbacks due to uncertainty.

New York hightimers realize that the laws they want—such as the ship subsidy and a bill to help the railroads—are likely to get lost in the shuffle along with the laws they don't want. But they're much more eager to scotch the latter than promote the former—so the stalemate appears to balance out in their favor.

The prime question in financial minds is how the nation will react to two months of running in circles and getting nowhere. A number of sources predict a swing back to the White House as offering the only hope of leadership. Others believe that inaction and compromise will give business a chance to assert itself more strongly. Still others fear a tremendous impetus to radical movements of all kinds.

UNMATCHED

Insiders get word that the so-

YOUTH IS HELD ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

ANAHEIM, March 23.—Chief of Police James Bouldin yesterday placed a "hold" on Robert C. McMillan, held in the county jail on check charges filed by Orange police. The hold was placed on McMillan after he had been identified as the man who attempted to cash an allegedly spurious check in two local business houses. McMillan is said to have admitted his attempts to cash the check.

The youth who admitted attempting to cash the check at the Fearn Hardware store said that his home is in Pomona. He was arrested in Orange in connection with the cashing of allegedly spurious checks and was confined with the Anaheim attempts by a clerk in the Fearn shop.

Comment runs that Donald Richberg might as well start growing a beard. The informed see strong indications that he's being prepared for the role of all-around goat. New Yorkers rate it significant that Senator Wagner—after negotiating peace between the White House and Senate on the prevailing wage issue—took occasion to rip Richberg up the back as an enemy of labor. The way the Congressional NRA industry is shaping also tends to make him the fall guy for all the defects in the code system. Many law makers are taking the attitude that if they never see him again it will be too soon.

One of the coordinator's main jobs has been to promote cooperation between government and industry. That cooperation could hardly be called a howling success.

Keen observers blame the job rather than the man for the trouble piling on Richberg's spine. But they agree that circumstances have made a Jonah of him—even among New Deal supporters—and that the time is soon coming when the greatest service he can render his chief will be to jump overboard.

REFUNDING

Consolidated Gas has more than $250,000,000 of bonds outstanding which pay 5 per cent and more. It could save nearly $3,000,000 a year in interest by refunding a la Pacific Gas American Telephone has $440,000,000 in 5 and 5 1/2 per cent bonds and could economize to the tune of nearly $4,000,000 annually by a similar deal. Still further savings would be possible if bonds of Telephone subsidiaries were included.

Yet there's no indication that these companies will act in the near future. In both cases it's understood the directors feel it wouldn't be wise to take a chance on favorable investor reaction while Washington is breathing heavily down their necks.

NATIONALIZED

College endowment funds are having rough sledding these days. Income from investments is shrinking (due partly to the Treasury's conversion policy) and trustees are at their wit's end to find investment channels which are both safe and adequate. A trustee for a well known school remarks: "We're going broke by inches. If this sort of thing keeps up we'll have to appeal to the government to take us over."

CHEERS

Few of those who attended an alumni meeting of an eastern college recently held here had any connection with financial New York. But when a speaker said, "Our finances are in pretty good shape—in spite of the government," he was greeted—somewhat to his surprise—with prolonged cheers and applause.

MOTHER AND BABES
GET JAIL LODGING

ANAHEIM, March 23.—Police provided lodgings, early this morning for a mother, her babe in arms and a four-year-old son. The woman and her children were brought to the police station by a man who had found them on the highway.

The mother told police that she was attempting to make her way, with her two children, to Texas. The little family had traveled from Oregon, she said. The mother and two children were taken to a local hotel where accommodations were provided for the night. The bill will be paid by the city welfare department.

Easterners Buy
Hanson Property
In San Clemente

SAN CLEMENTE, March 23.—Real estate activities in San Clemente are steadily increasing with the advance of the summer season. Paul J. Peterson, local manager of the San Clemente branch of the Bank of America, has completed a transaction for the sale of the two-acre estate of Ole Hanson Jr. to John Tucker Murray and Mrs. Mabel Vesson Murray, of Cambridge, Mass. This $75,000 estate, on the palisades overlooking the ocean, is one of the most beautiful residences in the city. Aside from the garden and home there are stable accommodations for five horses on the grounds.

DISMISS CHARGES

ANAHEIM, March 23.—Charges of disturbing the peace filed against Paul Gomez, were dismissed yesterday when the case was called for trial before Police Judge Frank Tausch. The charges were dropped when Virginia Blecker, who signed the complaint, failed to appear in court.

For the benefit of those friends, who are supporting me in this campaign, I wish to announce that I have had no intention of quitting the race at any time. For the benefit of those friends, who are supporting me in this campaign, I wish to announce that I have had no intention of quitting the race at any time. Rumors bob up in all political campaigns, and I am sure that the serious thinking voters put small credence in them.

I promised my supporters that I would enter this race to win by fair means, only, and I am in to the finish. It has been my policy in the past to carry on a clean campaign, and that is all I ask of my opponents.

PITCHING STAFF TO TOTE LOAD FOR GIANTS AGAIN

MIAMI BEACH, March 22.—Picking man of 34. He weighs 195 pounds. He lives only a couple of miles from the Santa Anita race track at Arcadia, Calif. He throws a knuckle ball.

Parmelee is the son of a country doctor in Michigan. He is a loose 200-pounder. He banks on blinding speed and a slider.

Once more it is these four pitchers that the St. Louis Cardinals will have to beat. Only a quartet like them could have enabled the Giants, with so many 200 hitters in their lineup, to battle the Cards until the last day of the '34 campaign.

The Big Four turned in 23 shutouts in 1933, and held the opposition to one run on 26 occasions. That made 46 games in which the New York club could have topped with two runs or less.

During the closing weeks of last season, Terry kept Phil Weintraub and Frank O'Doul in the dugout while his club was in the throes of a terrific batting slump. O'Doul had slumped somewhat, too, but certainly he would have been an improvement at the plate over Hank Leibler, who just then was the All-America out. And Weintraub, with a batting average of .351, sat there as the club slumped.

Even when he faced a desperate situation, Terry strung along with his best defensive men.

Terry is particularly happy to have Kiddo Davis back to spell or replace Leibler in center field. Davis hit .293 for the Phillies in 1934, but the Giant manager doesn't speak of that.

"Davis can certainly go and get 'em," beams Memphis Bill.

HITTING SECONDARY

Bill Terry leans to the defensive player. Although a splendid hitter himself, Terry prefers to chat about an athlete's fielding. His favorite subject is Hughie Critz, the polished second baseman who can't hit the size of Judge Landis' fist hat.

INSEPARABLE PALMS

Hubbell, Schumacher, Fitzsimmons and Parmelee are Giants in the true sense of the name. The last three have pitched for no other major league club, and Hubbell had only a brief trial in Detroit before reporting to the Polo Grounds.

Members of the Big Four are firm friends, but as different as they can be. Hubbell, the masterful left-hander, is a tall and raw-boned 165-pounder from an Oklahoma farm. He throws a screwball.

Schumacher is a 25-year-old collegian. He is a serious chap, handsome, and squarely set. He weighs 180 pounds. He is a curve ball pitcher from upper New York state.

Fitzsimmons is a roly-poly, roly-

INDIAN TRACK DEBUT POSTPONED BY RAIN

PALO ALTO, March 22.—(UP)—A dual track meet between Stanford and the University of San Francisco was postponed to day after an all night rain left the track in an impossible condition. The meet was to have been the debut of Coach "Dink" Templeton's 1934 Stanford varsity.

Women's matches open at 8. Marjorie Lauderbach, Mildred Ward, Zena Leck and Ann Wetherell are to play in that order for Santa Ana.

HEAD PLAY FAVORED IN 'MEADOWS' SLOP

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—(UP)—It rained all night and Northern California's richest horse race, the $25,000 Bay Meadows Handicap, was to be run today over a muddy track.

Gloom was everywhere at the Bay Meadows course today except around the barn of Mrs. Silas Mason of New York, who owns Head Play, the horse which just missed winning the Kentucky Derby in 1932 in one of the most spectacular finishes in the history of that famous race.

Head Play, now 5 years old, is considered one of the best mud runners on the American turf. He was 7-5 in the morning line, and may go to the post at even money. The track is made to order for Head Play.

AWARD BALTUSROL '36 NATIONAL OPEN

NEW YORK, March 22.—(UP)—The Baltusrol Golf club at Short Hills, N. J., will be the scene of the National Open in 1936.

Dates for the event will be announced later. The U. S. G. A. committee said last night.

The 1935 event will be staged at the Oakland Country club, Oakland, Pa., June 6, 7 and 8.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO—Sporting a revised infield featuring a sensational rookie, the San Francisco Seals sailed forth today to meet the Chicago Cubs, weather permitting. Manager Frank O'Doul placed Brooks Holder, Crockett, super player on second base and moved Art Garibaldi, veteran infielder, to third.

MARYSVILLE—Ray Lucas was assigned by Manager "Gaby" Street to be his starting pitcher in the game today between the Portland Beavers and the Sacramento Senators. The Missions and Senators also will meet Sunday.

OAKLAND—The Tokyo Giants, colorful all-Japanese team from the island empire, provided the opposition for the Oakland Pacific coast leaguers today in the Oaks' second appearance at home.

FULLERTON—The Seattle Indians arrived here today for a two-game exhibition series with the Hollywood Bill Klepper, president of the Seattle club, predicted that the Indians would cap the 1935 championship.

SANTA MONICA—Manager "Bud" Ryan brought his Portland Beavers here from San Bernardino today to meet the Los Angeles Angels in exhibition games today and tomorrow.

LOS ANGELES—The Pittsburgh Pirates hoped to repeat their 7 to 4 victory over the Chicago White Sox yesterday when the two teams met in an exhibition at Wrigley field today. They also met Sunday.

LAKELAND, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers were wondering today how the St. Louis Cardinals ever beat them in the world series last October. The Tigers sent Hatter and Sullivan, a couple of rookie southpaws to the hill, and the loss of a meeting of the year in an exhibition game between the series rivals won, 12-5.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—For the third day in a row, the Boston Braves today mounted the loss of a game by a single run. They opened their five-game spring series with the Boston Red Sox yesterday by taking it on the chin, 6-5.

BILOXI, Miss.—Clint Brown and Thornton Lee, Cleveland hurlers today shared in one of the few spring shutouts. Brown allowed Washington only three hits in six innings and Lee gave up none in three frames as the Indians won yesterday, 1-0.

TENNIS

LINCOLN-DOWNEY NETTERS HERE TOMORROW

A squad from the Lincoln-Downey club of Los Angeles descends on the Frances Willard courts tomorrow for an all-day tournament with the Santa Ana Tennis club. There will be ten singles matches in the men's division, four for women, and a series of doubles events in the afternoon.

The competition begins at 8 a. m., with Orris Davis, Toby White and Carl Aubrey starting for Santa Ana. Ken Ranney, Howard Moore and Gil Ward go on at 9. Lewis Wetherell, Tom Rippey and Bob Peacock at 10; Theron Willis at 11.

CUNNINGHAM LOAFS BUT DEFEATS VENZKE

TORONTO, Ont., March 22.—(UP)—Glenn Cunningham's margin of victories over Gene Venzke was increased by one today after a disputed mile race last night in the Maple Leaf Games, which proved that the mighty Kansan can beat the Pennsylvania star without exerting himself.

He won in 4:17 1-5, which was so slow compared with his previous performances this season that he appeared to be loafing.

"Chuck" Hornbostel of Indiana won by 20 yards in the half-mile invitation race, with Elton Brown, of Kansas City, second, and John Wolff, Manhattan college, New York, third.

IMPROVED PITCHING MAY GIVE A'S FLAG

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 22.—(UP)—The tall, grey man who has seen more major league baseball at first hand than anyone else above the sod today thinks his club may give places this year. This is to say that Connie Mack, the 72-year old pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics, is convinced that he has a first division club.

"I like my pitchers this year," Mack said. "I have five dependable—five who were with me last year. There's Merritt Cain, Joe Cascarella and Bill Dietrich. Then there's Marcus (John) Marmon of Eminence, Ky., and Althey Benton. All are right-handers."

What, no left-handers on the club?

"I have one good, young left-hander. Bill Tom Bennett. He's only 18. Still I think he's due to stay. And Verney Wilshire, who's 22. But I have hopes for George Caster. He's a right-hander. He comes from California. Played with Portland in the Coast league last year. And there's another Coast player—Charley Lieber, who was with the Missions. My other pitcher is LeRoy Mahaffey, who was with us last year. He's seemed all right so far."

The Athletics' infield, except for Alex Hukus at first in place of Jimmy Fox, who has returned to coaching, is a veteran combination. It finds Ed Williams at second, "Pinky" Higgins at third, and Eric McNair at short. The outfield has Bob Johnson at left, Roger Cramer at center, and Ed Coleman in right. They are hold-overs. As a first string alternative outfielder Mack looks to Wally Moses who was purchased from Galveston.

PICARD HOLDS LEAD

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 22.—(UP)—Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., pro, was still out in front today in the Charleston Open Golf tournament. Picard led after the third round yesterday by three strokes with 21. Harold MacSpaden, Kansas City, was second with 21.

SANTA ANA GOLFERS NEED TEN POINTS

SANTA ANA GOLFERS NEED TEN POINTS TO TOTE LOAD FOR GIANTS AGAIN

Featuring a stubborn pitching duel between Jimmy Wilkins of the Saints and "Slim" Hines of the Indians, a non-conference baseball game ended in Santa Ana's favor, 2-1, with Fullerton high school of the Football league here yesterday.

The curves and fast balls of the two prep gunners checked the offensive efforts of both clubs, Wilkins striking out 12 and Hines 14. Wilkins walked five, Hines only one, but the tall Saint offset by allowing but four hits to Hines' six.

The count was 1 to 1 going into the last of the ninth. With one out, Jones walked. Mitsuo Nitta struck out, but big Bob McClure cracked a sharp double to left-center and Jones reached third. Duane Teel, catcher, knocked a slow grounder to short and beat out the throw while Jones scored.

It was the first time in several seasons that Santa Ana had humbled Fullerton. Coach Clyde Cook's Saints are rounding into the school's finest aggregation, including the powerful '22 club which could hit but lacked pitching. Santa Ana has a return contest with the Indians at Fullerton April 24.

Next week the Saints meet Valencia here Tuesday, and trek to Riverside Wednesday for a return engagement with the jaycee club they recently defeated, 15-7. They launch their Coast league season here Friday against San Diego's Hillers.

DEAN'S TARGET PRACTICE RE S GIANT BATTERS

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, March 22.—Putting the sport shot here and there after two months, 10 days, 6 hours, 6 minutes and 31 seconds in Florida. (I got that way clocking Campbell).

Down around the camps they say the New York Giants are really "off" Dizzy Dean... and all for no reason, except that in an exhibition game he tried to hit a Joe Moore, the Giant outfielder, was christened that way... his name is not Joseph... they say Charley Gelbert's brave fight to make a comeback at shortstop with the Cards will end in failure... that injured leg is the reason...

They still kid Ben Chapman, the Yankee manager of the A's won't admit it. When Frankie Frisch first broke into major league baseball he was a cow-handed switch-hitter... which is to say he batted cross-handed and from either side of the plate... he still bats right or left... and five other Cardinals similarly are afflicted.

STUMP SHATTERS Frances Willard Jumping Record

In a record-breaking orgy led by Larry Stump, who high-jumped 5 feet, 6 1/2 inches, Frances Willard Junior High school's track forces defeated Tustin high school in Class B and C meets here yesterday. The Santa Ana "Bees" won 60 1/2 to 25 1/2, and the "Cees" triumphed, 63-14.

COAST GRIDDERS Run Until It Hurts, 71-7

OSAKA, Japan, March 22.—(UP)—A team of Southern California college football players scored touchdowns until they were too tired to do any more running today in defeating the native Meiji university team, 71-7.

It was the first clash between the touring Americans and a Japanese team and it drew 80,000 spectators.

The vast crowd was silent as the heavier, more experienced victors scored at will, using passes and running plays to keep the count on the scoreboard steadily mounting toward a record mark.

But when the tenacious Meiji eleven scored, taking advantage of the opposition fatigue, the crowd applauded loudly.

The Japanese players showed great energy and ferocity in throwing themselves at the legs of the American ball-carriers but lacked practice and could not compete with the seasoned tourists.

The Americans will make their next game Saturday against All-Japan aggregation in the vast Meiji stadium at Tokyo.

BRADDOCK ENDS LASKY'S DREAM OF TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, March 22.—(UP)—James J. Braddock stood today as a glorified contender in the top-heavy heavyweight throne-room after his amazing conquest of Art Lasky last night—a smashing victory that topped Braddock's nine-month march back from pugilism's boneway.

The last of the great Irish heavyweights, who only a year ago was a longshoreman barely earning meat and potatoes for his wife and three kids after seven futile years of ring warfare, still heard the thunder of 11,000 frenzied voices pounding in his ears as he went running for a tilt with Max Schmeling.

Schmeling, who precipitated the current renaissance in the fight game, is the lone barrier between Braddock and a crack at Max Baer's title now that Primo Carnera has deserted Madison Square Garden and signed to fight Joe Louis for the Twentieth Century club.

Schmeling will meet plenty of trouble in the 25-year-old New Jersey scrapper whose pile-driving fists gave Lasky the worst beating of his five-year career, and won the unanimous 15-round decision. Handicapped by age and weight, and a 3 to 1 underdog in the betting, Braddock bashed and battered the Jewish Californian until 10,143 paying customers wondered what kept him on his feet.

The bell saved Lasky in the sixth after he had been seen reeling by a barrage of smashing long-range rights and lefts to the head. In the eleventh, Art again was out on his feet, but Braddock was too tired then to put him away.

YOUTHS MAY SHOW UP Net Champ As Critic

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—(UP)—Frederick J. Perry, British tennis star, may know the game from top to bottom, but two 19-year-old California youngsters hoped to prove to him today that he doesn't know much about Davis Cup talent.

Perry shook his head doubtfully recently when informed that Gene Mako and Donald Budge, the two youthful racket artists, appeared to be America's foremost doubles prospects.

"Too inexperienced," said the Britisher who lately has been issuing vigorous denials to reports that he is to become a professional. "Give them a few more years, and then perhaps."

Mako and Budge will take the courts tonight against Perry and Francis X. Shields, the American Davis cupper, in an effort to prove to everyone, and to Perry in particular, that they should be given berths on the U. S. team.

Budge, a tall red-headed youth from Oakland, arrived here today and went through a few practice

UNIVERSAL QUINTET OUT OF BIG TOURNAMENT

DENVER, Colo., March 22.—(UP)—When the "cease firing" signal is given here tonight at the National A. U. championship basketball tournament, the parade of the nation's outstanding teams will have drawn to an end and Kansas City Stage Lines, or Globe Refiners of McPherson, Kan., will be crowned "king."

Forty-six of the leading teams of the country entered the tournament, which started last Monday. Today all had met defeat with the exception of the Stage Lines and Refiners, who marched through the semi-finals last night with a clean slate.

The Globe Refiners clashed with Universal Pictures of Hollywood, and were on the long end of a 40-to-36 count.

YOUTHS MAY SHOW UP Net Champ As Critic

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—(UP)—Frederick J. Perry, British tennis star, may know the game from top to bottom, but two 19-year-old California youngsters hoped to prove to him today that he doesn't know much about Davis Cup talent.

Perry shook his head doubtfully recently when informed that Gene Mako and Donald Budge, the two youthful racket artists, appeared to be America's foremost doubles prospects.

"Too inexperienced," said the Britisher who lately has been issuing vigorous denials to reports that he is to become a professional. "Give them a few more years, and then perhaps."

Mako and Budge will take the courts tonight against Perry and Francis X. Shields, the American Davis cupper, in an effort to prove to everyone, and to Perry in particular, that they should be given berths on the U. S. team.

Budge, a tall red-headed youth from Oakland, arrived here today and went through a few practice

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

Gale Henderson was right; something had happened that night. It began with three men sitting around a table in a drab, ill-lit restaurant. The air in the room was gray and heavy, partly from cigarette smoke, partly because the ceiling lights were weak. There was a counter at one side of the room and a man stood behind it. He wore a dirty apron and he was sliding a wet rag over the dingy surface of the counter.

The three men sat near the door leading into the kitchen. There were no other customers except a man at the counter, drinking beer, and a man and girl at a table farther front.

The cloth on the table about which the three men sat was spotted with grease and some of the dishes were chipped. Of the three, only Ed Vogel was eating. He swore mildly, sawing at the beefsteak, cut off a huge bite and stabbed it, holding it aloft on his fork.

"They thought they'd get ahead of Ed Vogel," he joked. "Well, they found out different."

The man on the right said, "Give 'em the works, did you?" "I'll say!"

The man who had spoken had a flat nose that looked as though it had been broken. His pale eyes were narrow, slanting. A cigarette slipped from one corner of his mouth.

"Listen, Stroude," said the third man, "suppose some of these guys got tough? I ain't as big as you two."

He wasn't. He was little with dark hair, and his face was distinguished for only one thing—it was complete mediocrity. "Lefty" was the only name either of the others knew for him.

"Well," said Stroude, and his lips

THREE-ACT PLAY PRESENTED BY TUSTIN HIGH STUDENTS

Matters are further complicated by the determination of Marion Hardy, Betty Boosey, to enter politics as a career, to the great vexation of Wayne Trenton III, Bill Backman, her admirer, Aunt Milly, Llewellyn Allen, the placid, old-maid school teacher who declares herself, is equalled only by Helen Marshall, which throws the family into further turmoil. Carl Hawkins, the old ex-smokehouse, Don Watson, Judge Hardy's political manager, help to keep things humming. Andy Hardy,

Eugene Chittenden, an irrepressible adolescent, with the able help of Myra, Thora Francis, and Estelle, Audrey Benjamin, the judge's two married daughters, creates many complicated situations.

Musical numbers preceding the play and in between acts included selections by the high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Mary McVey and pipe organ selections by Alberta Hoover, Don Watson and Naomi Lehman.

The production staff was composed of Bruce Mayhugh, business manager; Dorothy Griest, costumes; Thora Francis and Audrey Benjamin, properties; Miss Stella Youm and Bill Cole, class advisers. Brisco, adviser; Arthur Curry, manager; Merrill Allison, Robert Buchheim, Eugene Chittenden, Chester Carl, Milford Dahl, Douglas Leonard, Jay Mills, Clark Rees, Keith Tantlinger and Robert Young.

BY MARY BURKE KING

The Case for Manchoukuo, by George Bronson Rea, published by Appleton-Century company.

Here on the west coast we are probably more keenly interested in the problems of the Far East than elsewhere. The problems center around the newly formed Manchoukuo press firmly on our attention. In this book George Bronson Rea, editor of the Far Eastern Review, presents the claims of Manchoukuo to the recognition denied it by every nation except Japan. The author writes frankly as the mouthpiece of the government of Manchoukuo in the United States. He does so from the vantage-point of long residence in the Far East and study of the problems as well as deep conviction of the justice of the Japanese viewpoint.

The harvest of many years of important experience in the Far East has been an overwhelming conviction, says the author, of the utility of the program that the West, led by the United States, has for the East, the fiction that China is a republic, the theory that its vast multitudes can be bound together in a single nation. "I believe," he says in the preface, "that the protection Japan is extending to Manchoukuo gives it its only chance of happiness. I believe that Japan's actions are to be commended."

He appeals for a hearing for his case for Manchoukuo. The West was horrified by the brazen penetration of Japan into Chinese territory. Feeling was strong. Time has cooled the heat of several years ago which, properly manipulated, might have led this country into war. Today we have the spirit to accept and tolerate such a book as this. Its frankness recommends it. It is well for us to read it and study it.

Japan we have with us demanding our thought. Mr. Sokolsky the other night said that it was not bad for China at all that she was losing much outlying territory. China is being concentrated into a country which the young government can manipulate. It can strengthen itself. It is stronger precisely because it is not so expansive. It is a thought worth considering, coming as it does from a real friend of China. It puts us in a mood to study this book and put its arguments to the test. Japanese are penetrating Poland. Japanese are to be found in Ethiopia. This book hardly throws any light on that. The Japanese penetration of the world only brings home to us the necessity of studying Japan's "game."

"The Case for Manchoukuo" should be read critically. It is of value only if we weigh carefully the case which it presents and the more credit to the reader who can find points of disagreement and hold them against the author's arguments.

"February Hill," by Victoria Lincoln, published by Farrar and Rinehart.

"February Hill" is not a nice book. Nice people and people who set store by their niceness will not admit to enjoying it, for sturdy readers it is fun. But it has its strong good points. The author has most certainly made the characters live, and insofar as they are real, and seem real, they broaden the field of understanding of those of the readers who do not otherwise contact such types. It is certain that most of the readers do not, for people of the type of the February Hill folk do not read, except probably Vergil and Vergil is the most individualized of the characters in the book.

The test of the author's skill is that she makes one understand Jenny's love for her family.

The setting is in Maine. The characters are the members of the Harris family. Minna, the mother, belongs to a frowned upon profession and one of her daughters seemed destined to follow in her footsteps, the youngest one, Jenny, the oldest daughter discovers her family, except for her father's mother from whom she tries to wring some financial assistance. Vergil, the father, is a Harvard graduate who had been disowned by his family when he married Minna. Then there is Joel, the son, a sensitive, intellectual boy. And there is Grandma, a most unpleasant figure. The figure with most appeal, however, is Jenny. One can put up with a lot of disagreeable features for the enjoyment of Jenny. Jenny is not a person one would want in one's social set, but one could easily weep over Jenny. Jenny doesn't disown her family. She recognizes that she loves them and she can't help it though she wishes that she could when she meets Berkley.

All the parts about Jenny are well worth reading. Jenny is a character one shouldn't fail to know. It is too bad literary taste necessitated that things turned out so badly for Jenny. One knows what Jenny's future will be, it is inevitably woven into Jenny's love for "Gramma" and Minna, made so real that we are not in doubt. It would be too bad to miss Jenny. For the creation of Jenny the February Hill background was necessary.

Her Soul to Keep, by Ethel Cook Elliot, published by the MacMillan Co.

"Her Soul to Keep" is a beautiful story, set in a college town, of Lucia and her adopted daughter, Jane. Lucia had seen Jane one day at a tea where she was helping pass the cakes. Jane, an orphan, had been living in the household where she was then, helping with the housework, but she had been so unsatisfactory that she was being returned shortly to the institution from which she had been taken. Lucia's heart at once and Lucia took her into her own home. She was too old to really have been Lucia's daughter and she caused Lucia more work than relief. In the household where Lucia had already been overburdened with work before Jane came. But Jane was a joy to her. Jane was gifted and beautiful. Lucia's husband, Vivien, flared up in jealous resentment. One morning before the quarrel was wiped out between them he was brought home dead, killed in an automobile accident. At that time Lucia almost hated Jane, she might have done so if her intelligence had not asserted its rightful influence over her action and restrained her from condemning Jane as an innocent cause of her remorse.

There is a strong religious tone to the book. Jane hurts Lucia terribly but because Lucia is the fine character she is she turns a "disgrace" and a sin into a lovely thing.

It is a romance a bit verbose at times but impressive. Not the least interesting aspect is the reaction of a broad minded and sophisticated set to a situation in real life which they had reacted quite differently to when they encountered it in a popular book which they were all reading.

LYING AWAKE

This is a sacred and exquisite rite. This lying awake but ever so still. Through the timeless and timeless prairies of night. That stretch to the morning's resonant hill.

This lulling your motions and even your breathing. So as not to awaken the one at your side. Till your body's a sword which the night is sheathing. In seaboard of darkness incredibly wide.

Here in this quiet, immune from the crush. And the fever of living, released and calm. You wonder what ecstasy waits in the husk. That will hold you as seed in the sower's palm.

HOMEWARD

When such a little walk. Rewards the quickened eye. With cobwebs draped on a hedge. Like laces out to dry. With many-hued stems, with ferns. Like living feathers of green. Why fear from birth to death.

"RUGGLES OF RED GAP" NOW AT WEST COAST

With Charles Laughton, eminent English actor, in the title role, "Ruggles of Red Gap," Harry Leon Wilson's famous story of society in the backwoods of America during the rollicking 1900's is the current attraction at the West Coast theater. The picture, which opened yesterday, will close on Wednesday night.

The picture features Laughton with an all-star comedy cast, including Mary Boland, Charles Ruggles, Roland Young and ZaSu Pitts. In the ludicrous tale of the perfect hawker, won in a poker game and brought back to Red Gap, U. S. A., to create a furor in the provinces.

The film opens in London where "Ruggles" changes masters as the result of an all-night poker session. On his first day with his new — and democratic — master, "Ruggles" starts out to show him the picture galleries and winds up on a spree. Brought to the United States, he is introduced to Red Gap society as Colonel Ruggles of the English Army. The butler becomes so infused with the democratic spirit that he loses his old feeling of servility and starts out on a career of his own.

The comic effects on Red Gap society when Ruggles begins "court" the town's leading widow and setting himself up in business as a restaurateur are brought to a happy conclusion when he achieves both ambitions. Laughton, round, jovial and plump, renders an inspired performance in the comic role of this favorite of all butlers, and the balance of the cast match him laugh for laugh in the incredibly comic sequence.

Short subjects include a color cartoon, "Jack Frost," a musical with Will Osborne and his band, an Adventures of a Cameraman subject, "Tracking the Explorers," and World News events.

"SEQUOIA" AND "AFTER OFFICE HOURS" SUNDAY NEXT THURSDAY AT BROADWAY

The most amazing revelation of nature's intimate secrets ever attempted for the screen is to be seen in "Sequoia," startling outdoor drama featuring Jean Parker which opens at the West Coast theater Thursday for five days with a second feature, "Car 99," a story of the famous Michigan state police. It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Filed among the grandeurs of Sequoia National Park, "Sequoia" is the perfect answer to the demand for wholesome and inspiring pictures and is as new and fresh as mountain air in the extraordinary entertainment value. Fountaine said. Nearly two years in the filming, the picture deals with a friendship between a deer and mountain lion, two of nature's most deadly enemies. Raised together, the two animals are shown fighting the wilds together.

In addition, many other species of American wild life were "stalked" with a camera, including coyotes, bears, raccoons, eagles, rattlesnakes, baby fawns and small lion cubs. Miss Parker and Russell Hurd provide a human theme to the plot as two young people who find love amid the breathtaking beauty of the park, the world's largest forest of giant trees. The picture is based on "Malibu," one of the most widely read nature stories ever written.

"Car 99" is based on true incidents in the experience of the great criminal hunting force of Michigan. Fred MacMurray portrays a young rookie encouraged by his sweetheart, Ann Sheridan, to join the state police. After a discouraging back in which he permits important prisoners to escape, he wins his spurs in a single-handed round-up of a dangerous band of thieves. Others in the cast include Sir Guy Standing, William Frawley, Dean Jagger and Marjorie Schaubert.

A Pop-Eye cartoon, "Please to Meet You," and World News Events, completes the program.

FOUNTAIN BOOKS SEVEN NEW FILMS

Announcement of the booking of seven new pictures which will show at the Broadway theater in the near future was made today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Starting April 4 a double bill will be screened with "Let's Live Tonight," a captivating love story with the continental favorites Lillian Harvey and Tullio Carminati, and "Princess O'Hara," a sparkling film story written by Damon Runyon which features Jean Parker and Chester Morris. "10 Raise," with Edward Everett Horton and Karen Morley, comes to the Broadway on April 11 with a second feature, "Florentine Dagger," a new mystery melodrama which features Margaret Lindsay and Donald Woods.

"Gold Diggers of 1935," First National's latest mammoth musical spectacle with Dick Powell and Gloria Stuart, comes on April 14.

"Private Worlds," Claudette Colbert's newest starring vehicle, is scheduled to open on April 21.

In "After Office Hours," which opens an engagement of four days at the Broadway theater tomorrow, there are many new and startling innovations, according to an announcement made today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

The first innovation is the co-starring team itself, Clark Gable and Constance Bennett, who share honors for the first time.

Second is the story, a murder mystery against a Park avenue background, which lets the audience see who is the murderer and how the "perfect crime" was committed, then watch a skilled investigator in action.

As noted for his acting as for turns in what advance notices say is a flawless performance as the newspaper editor who solves the crime, Miss Bennett plays the part of his socialite cub reporter.

Equally strong is the supporting cast which includes Stuart Erwin, Billie Burke, Harvey Stephens, Katharine Alexander, Hale Hamilton and Henry Travers.

Short subjects will include a musical comedy, "The Spirit of 1935," a color cartoon, "Shoemaker and the Elves," a Grantland Rice Sportlite, "Feline Athletics," and Register World News Events.

Fountain announced today. The second feature on the program is "Great Hotel Murder," said to be a rib-rolicking mystery thriller that dispenses laughs and suspense in equal measure.

Reginald Owen, Frank Morgan, Katharine Alexander, Jane Baxter and Ralph Forbes are among the cast who help Miss Harding bring the delightful tale of "Enchanted April" to the screen. Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are pitted against each other as rival mystery sleuths in "Great Hotel Murder," a new comedy drama.

Miss Budlong today. "What are the really important events in the history of mankind? What should be the center of the historian's attention? ## Peter Describes The Christian Life

Text: 1 Peter 3:8-18
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 24.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

There are many descriptions of the Christian life. Jesus himself described it as the doing of the will of God. And as the will of God is the will of an all loving and gracious father, the life that follows God's commandments is one that in heart, mind, soul and strength is yielding up in love to God and in love to one's fellow men.

Paul defined the Christian life in the 13th of First Corinthians in terms of this love related to every virtue, every activity, and every goal.

Here in our lesson Peter defines the Christian life in details and terms of specific attitudes, tempers, and actions.

Christians in their life together must be like minded—that is, one in their common aims and hopes. They must be compassionate, tender hearted, humble minded, and loving as brethren.

There can be no real Christian life or Christian community apart from that attitude. Nor is this attitude merely one of ideal hopes and aims. It is to be realized in a very practical world full of temptations and full of offenses in which man seriously tries his brother.

Under these conditions the Christian will not render evil for evil; he will not revile again when he is reviled. On the contrary, he will show the reality of his Christianity by rendering good for evil, and by giving blessing for reviling. The Christian is called to inherit and practice blessedness. Peter says that this sore of living is conducive to health and strength even in a physical sense. Surely, all other things being equal, that is essentially true. That man has the greatest expectation of life, whose life is freest from affliction and trouble and the disrupting influences of evil passions and tempers. There is nothing that can harm the man whose life is thus well established in blessedness and goodness.

Even if such a man should suffer for righteousness' sake, his blessedness is no less, and to have a good conscience toward God and man is much more than to be free from persecution or to be shielded from what others may do.

The example of this good life for Peter, as for all who have defined it, is in the Master himself. Christ suffered for us—the righteous for the unrighteous—to bring us to God, and it is through Him that we are made alive in the spirit.

It is instructive to observe that a portion of our lesson is quoted from the Psalms. The Christian life should never be conceived in terms of narrow religious experience. It is not a life of goodness in contact with the good life as men lived it before Jesus came to earth, or with goodness as it is manifested in those who earnestly seek God through other religions not knowing the Christian way.

Jesus came not to destroy but to fulfill, not to set up a narrow or artificial standard of good living, but to emphasize the goodness that is inherent in man created in the image and likeness of God, and through which man manifests his affinity with the Creator.

DANIEL IN THE LIONS' DEN

Under Darius, Daniel retained his high position, being made chief of the three presidents which Darius set over the kingdom. Then his fellow dignitaries induced King Darius to issue a decree forbidding any one to ask anything of God or man for thirty days except of the king. When Daniel, nevertheless, continued to pray three times a day, the king against his will felt obliged to carry out the decree. "Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Then the king went to his palace, and passed the night fasting. Then the king arose very early in the morning, and went in haste unto the den of lions. And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel: Is thy God, whom thou servest continually, able to deliver thee from the lions? Then said Daniel unto the king, O king, live forever. My God hath sent His Angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me. Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel up out of the den; and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God."—Daniel 6: 16-23. # THE TINYMITES

At last the clever tumbler stopped their act, and to the ground they dropped. "We've had enough," one of them said. "Our strength is almost gone."

"If we get rest, we'll be all right. I think we'll sleep right here all night. We'll thank you Tinymites, if you will wake us up at dawn."

This made the giant laugh. Said he, "Aw, come, now, surely you can't be that tired. I think a good hour's nap will pep you up again."

"Say, with your tumbling you're too rough. You don't know when you've had enough. It's fine to stage your act, but you should rest up now and then."

The wee Hindu then waved his hand, and said, "They're both in slumberland. I used my magic power to make them quickly doze away."

"And now, for one long hour we'll let them sleep. In that time they will get the rest they need. While we are waiting, all of us can play."

"Now, wait," the giant said. "I think that all of you should sneak a wink of sleep. I'll stay awake and be the guard for this fine bunch."

So, underneath a nearby tree they sprawled out, comfy as could be, and dozed away. Apparently, it was a real good hunch.

About two hours passed by and then wee Scouty was awake again. "Arouse the rest," the giant said. "We'll have one more big show. This time all of the midgits will dance 'round together. What a thrill! The one who has the small guitar will play for them. I know."

When told of the old giant's plan, into a ring the midgits ran. Soon music from the small guitar was floating on the breeze.

The midgits danced around and 'round until they almost shook the ground. The little cowboy shouted to the Tinlins, "Join us, please." (Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

Stories in STAMPS

Wool Over AUSTRALIA

THE foresight and initiative of a young British army officer, Capt. John Macarthur, brought to Australia in 1802 what has turned out to be its greatest industry. It was Macarthur's importation of Merino sheep from Spain that has resulted today in making Australia the world's foremost wool-producing country. More than 100,000,000 sheep there, about 16 to each human inhabitant, produce one-fourth of the world's wool supply.

In honor of Macarthur, Australia recently issued a commemorative set of three stamps, each picturing the famous Merino ram against an Australian background.

CALIFORNIA TO BECOME A SECOND MONTE CARLO?

Some months ago, when people were weary with politics, a bill was passed whereby race track gambling was legalized in California, with the governor appointing the three members of the Racing board.

California voted that it would accept 4 per cent out of every dollar wagered and allow the race track owners to take 8 per cent additional, as well as the odd change, which amounted to about 1 and 3-4 per cent more.

In other words, California leased out the gambling privilege in order to get 4 per cent of the bets for themselves. All well and good. California is simply a gambling house proprietor who does not have to pay tribute to "John Law" and gets 4 per cent whether the gambler wins or not.

Now it is proposed that another race track should be built in Southern California; the eagerness to start this game is caused by the fact that the men who run the gambling game at Santa Anita netted for themselves over 100 per cent in a short fifty-odd days, or over 700 per cent per year. And yet the stock remaining, after a 100 per cent dividend, is worth two times as much as was paid for it.

Again we say "O. K.," but from the temper of California's people this paper wants to warn the eager gamblers that if any further permits are granted in all certainty the dear people who voted the race track gambling in will vote it out.

Back East the department store owners and merchants have already petitioned the legislature for the entire elimination of the track which pays the gamblers much less than the "take" out here.

We are in this position as citizens of California—we are now gambling proprietors. We are playing the cinch; we get four cents whenever a "sucker" bets on a horse, but in order to get our four cents we give a franchise to "take" nine and one-half cents more, to our "pal," the professional.

In other words, the money lost the moment the bet is made is about 14 per cent, taking all the money put up as the basis.

That is, on each bet the winners get the stakes minus 14 per cent.

This means the sucker must lose, because the percentage is against him. Seven bets and all his money is gone, on the average.

It might be well to hesitate before going farther, Mr. Race Track Gambler; you have one track here and two in the north. After all, you just get what others lose. Don't trespass too far on California's patience.

OUR NAUGHTY LITTLE NEIGHBOR CUBA

John Morley once made the remark that the Irish question would not be solved till the day after the day of judgment. That same remark might be applied to Cuba.

Cuba has been for years a stormy petrel in American political life. There have always been a large number of interested business concerns which wanted Cuba as a part of the United States.

During the Grant administration, a move was made in that direction. The Spanish war was waged largely for that purpose, as one of our historians points out in his recent book on "The Martial Spirit."

But American sentiment has always been strong against imperialism. In the case of the Philippines, the anti-imperialists lost out.

But Cuba was handed back to the Cubans with a string tied to it in the form of the Platt amendment. This amendment gave the United States the right to intervene in case Cuba's stability was threatened. This amendment has been revoked and Cuba is fully independent.

But the troubles of Cuba are not at end. Foreign investments, revolutionary juntas and the depression in the sugar industry are constant sources of friction.

Since we are responsible for the behavior of Cuba on account of the Monroe doctrine, which demands that European nations shall keep out of the territory of the Western hemisphere, any trouble there is bound to embroil us.

We believe, however, that American diplomacy in the long run will be much more effective than military measures in setting Cuba right. We have found that out in our troubles with Mexico.

As long as the grievances which Cuba has are met in the spirit of justice and conciliation, there is little doubt that our good offices will be effective.

THESE "RADICALS"—LINCOLN STEFFENS

At least for this once in his life Lincoln Steffens, muck-raker, or brilliant critic of the capitalist system, educator, socialist, pink radical and what not, for once he finds himself in a thoroughly capitalist atmosphere.

He is being sued in Federal court because of his liability as a stockholder in a closed national bank. Worse than that in the eyes of the real "reds," he loaned Owen D. Young a little matter of $35,000, and took a capitalistic mortgage as security.

The matter is not cited in a spirit of glee because of Steffens' court difficulties but merely to have a little fun and adorn a tale.

If we are to be converted to radical doctrines let men with mortgages and stockholders in banks render that service at their leisure. Surely we cannot go far wrong when our erstwhile radicals will use all legal means to preserve their own property.

And when he comes to Santa Ana in the future, let's give him a big hand. His digestion may be bad at times, but he is always interesting, and now that he turns out to be one of these conservative first mortgage people, let's enjoy him more whole-heartedly.

TREASURE HUNTING ALWAYS FASCINATING

The lure of treasure hunting is with us, it seems, from the cradle to the grave. Some throw aside the pick and shovel and speculate in real estate and stocks, but others, like L. F. Vremsak, Santa Barbara manufacturer, seek treasure in little known parts of the world.

Some months ago this man went into the wilds of central Mexico, under the protection of the Mexican government, and sought for treasure buried at the time of the Mexican rebellion against Spain, almost one hundred years ago.

The first unsuccessful adventure into the wilds was followed by a second expedition without the protection of the government, when bandits kidnaped the adventurer. A total of $10,000 in Mexican money is demanded as ransom and the duty of buying off the bandits is entrusted to a simple peon.

Greater even than the lure of treasure must be the tingle of excitement as the husband waits to be rescued and the wife hangs to her faith that the peon will succeed in freeing her husband.

In our own county a group of Mexicans, residing in and around El Modena, are surrounding their search for Spanish treasure with mystic rites, as they conduct their digging in the shade of pepper trees on moonlight nights. The grip of gold, old maps and secret yarns of hidden wealth clutch them as it does those who occupy so-called "higher stations of life."

Material for adventurous tales is close at every hand; and those improbable adventure tales so lightly told in cheaper magazines are no stranger than the adventures of men and women around about us.

REPUBLICANS PLAYING WITH HUEY LONG

There has been a tendency on the part of the Republicans to play with Huey Long, not so much because they like him or his antics, but because it embarrasses the Democratic administration.

This is mighty poor political strategy. It is bound to end disastrously for the Republican party. No party can afford to play with a man whose political standards are naturally opposed to it.

Huey Long's "Share the Wealth Society" runs squarely against the economic philosophy of the Republican party. To play with those standards for a temporary advantage will be suicidal.

Much better would it be for the Republican party to build up a constructive platform of its own with which to appeal to the country. No expedients and no grasping of a floating spar here and there can advantage the party anything. If the party is to be rehabilitated, it will only be accomplished by a united front on basic progressive principles.

Whether such a united front is possible with the heterogeneous elements which make up the party is an open question. We do not believe that it is possible.

There can be no reconciliation between the Eastern conservatives and the Western progressives. Nevertheless, the only hope of the party is that it will take a positive stand, and get as many of the party as will in line.

No party pulling in opposite directions can hope to get the endorsement of the country. Playing with Huey Long is nothing more than a sign of political bankruptcy.

The Cotton Market

New York Times

The Secretary of Agriculture's comments last Saturday, on the evils of reducing production for the sake of prices, were convincing. But they surely must have puzzled hearers who had watched the government's policies, in cotton production particularly.

When the Bankhead bill last April placed a virtually prohibitive "ginning tax" on cotton produced in excess of an arbitrary total (30 per cent smaller than the previous season's crop) every one recognized that an effort was being made to open a market for the abnormally large unsold accumulations.

The plan at any rate dealt with a visible and difficult problem. But when this restrictive legislation accompanied the government's offer to lend on cotton up to 10 cents a pound, and when that rate last August was increased to 12 (both prices being close to prevailing market quotations) it was evident that government was taking a hand in prices.

The previous policy of paying cotton planters, up to a given point, for not producing or even for destroying already planted crops, left little doubt of the purpose.

When what was then called the "twelve-cent guarantee" went into force, it was widely assumed that the cotton market could not go below that price. As a matter of fact, the price went above that figure. Presently, however, something else in the way of consequences became visible.

Cotton is primarily an "export crop," which means that its price must be such as to sustain foreign demand, in the face of marketings by other cotton-producing countries. It soon developed that the twelve-cent price was not serving that purpose.

Furthermore, the cut in our cotton yield to the smallest in three decades, except for the destructive "boll-weevil" season, 1921, and the government's evident purpose to keep it down, applied instantaneous stimulus to competing foreign production.

During the seven months ending with February our exports of cotton decreased from the previous season 2,293,999 bales, or no less than 40 per cent. They were far smaller than in any corresponding period since the distant pre-war years.

Full realization of this highly unpleasant fact, and uncertainty as to how the government's future policy will be affected by it, have been reflected in the past week's market. Between March 7 and last Monday the spot price at New York fell from 12½ cents a pound to 10½, a decline of about 15 per cent. It remains to be seen how permanent the decline will be and how it will affect the cotton situation. But one need not wait to make up his mind as to the light it throws on the government's experimenting.

More Truth Than Poetry

CAN HAPPEN

When I did fairly well in the market
And made a few bucks now and then,
"My broker," I said,
"Has a shrewd level head,
And is surely a prince among men."
I bought when he told me to purchase,
I sold when he told me to sell,
And in every trade
A profit I made,
And murmured: "That lad is sure swell."

Then suddenly all my investments
For some unknown reason went bad:
Each day and each hour
They grew still more sour.
"I'll hold every one that I had,"
"That broker," I said, "is a bone-head."
Everything that he bought has gone wrong;
I will handle my self
Hereafter myself;
I will not be sold out for a song."

Disregarding whatever he told me,
I went in the Street on my own
A new fortune to seek,
But inside of a week
I was stripped to my innermost bone.
My creditors daily pursue me;
Though I haven't a red to my name;
Perhaps I have struck
A stream of bad luck;
I am sure that I can't be to blame.

But money never seems "filthy lucre" until you have tried to get it and failed.

THE HENPECKED BROTHER CAN MAKE HIS WIFE READ A SHARP NOTE. HE CAN SEAL IT IN AN ENVELOPE ADDRESSED TO HIMSELF.

It comes down to this, that the rules always seem fair to the winner and rotten to the loser.

Me and Puds Simkins was sitting on Mary Watkins front steps talking to her, me saying funny things and making her laugh and Puds butting in to try to prove he was wonderful, and he started to brag about his twin cousins, saying, "They're grate guys all right, G wizzikers, they ha'f to wear different color neckties because that's the only way their father and mother can tell which one they're talking to and which one they ain't."

My, imagine, isn't that wonderful, my, Mary Watkins said, and I said, "Aw, what's that, I know 2 twins and they look so much alike their favorite indoor sport is jumping around in front of a looking glass and trying to tell which is which."

Goodness, I never heard of such a thing, goodness, Mary Watkins said, and Puds said, "O yes, like fun, what's their name if you know them?" and I said, "Their name is the Skrumbunker twins."

O yeah? Bultony, Puds said, my cousins look so much alike why G wizz they take each others' lickings, or I mean anyways, at least Ned takes Ned's lickings because Ned's tuffer, and Ted gives him 2 cents for every licking he takes for him, Puds said, and I said, "Well what of it, these Skrumbunker twins get so mixed up that several times they couldn't even tell themselves apart from each other, and their mother and father don't even know yet whether they ever got them straightened out or not."

Mersey, my goodness, thing of that, head Puds said, and Puds said, "Well if they can't tell themselves apart then I guess you want to try to say they don't even know their own names?" and I said, "Sure they do, only their names is both alike for the simple reason why because they're both named Albit, so that's how much alike they are, they're so much alike even their names are alike."

Being the end of the argument in my favor.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE HOLDING COMPANIES AGAIN

As I pointed out in these articles some weeks ago, the holding company dramatizes what seems to me to be the heart of the problem of capitalization with which any administration, whether reformist or reactionary, will be forced to deal.

This problem, as I stated it some weeks ago, is this. There are two kinds of capitalism:

(1) A functional capitalism.

(2) A financial capitalism.

I defined functional capitalism as that part of the capitalistic enterprise which is concerned to create wealth by production.

I defined financial capitalism as that part of the capitalistic enterprise which is concerned to capture wealth by manipulation.

I was over-simplifying a bit in this definition of the financial capitalism. There is, of course, a very large area of the capitalistic venture in which financial capitalism is an integral part of the process of creating new wealth by production. As long as financial capitalism is really financing productive enterprise it is socially sound. It is when financial capitalism becomes merely an acquisitive instrument capturing wealth by sheer manipulation that it becomes anti-social and the legitimate target of reform.

I do not believe that the American people, by and large, want to go either toward Fascism or toward Communism. I think they want to preserve to the utmost the American tradition of private enterprise. But I am convinced that they will turn a deaf ear to any leadership that does not wage effective war against the purely acquisitive and manipulative operations of financial capitalism.

I think that this distinction between functional capitalism that creates wealth by production and financial capitalism that captures wealth by manipulation is a simply understood yardstick with which we may measure the social soundness or unsoundness of the various practices and agencies of our economic system.

Many agencies of the business system, like the holding companies, may be designed to serve both the productive and the purely manipulative operations of business. In such cases it would seem the part of wisdom to salvage the socially useful functions of such agencies and to outlaw the clearly anti-social functions they may served.

REBELLIOUS CHILDREN

"Come in now, Bobbie, and get ready for lunch."
"Maybelle, it is time for your nap."
"No."

What is a poor mother to do now? Get on her dignity and announce in awful tones, "Don't ever say NO to me. I'm your mother, remember. You must NEVER say NO to me." If she does she makes a mistake that is costly.

Little children about three or so, have a limited vocabulary. But they have limitless ideas. They long to hold conversations with people when these thoughts flood their minds but they have no words, or, having them, have no power to organize them into sentences that tell their story. But they have one powerful word that symbolizes their opposition to the whole scheme of maternity. They can say NO in many accents. They do not always mean a bold rebellious NO.

When a child says NO like that take it easy. Study the overtones, interpret the inner meaning. Find what that explosive sound stands for in the mind of this child. You can be sure that he is not in agreement. Maybe he wants an extension of time, maybe he wants the conditions changed a bit closer to his needs, maybe he wants to play with you, being lonely and longing for companionship. Consider all that before you answer him.

Try to avoid making him say it for the period when it is upper most in his thinking. When you interrupt him in his play give him a first call—"In five minutes I will call you." Then, his mind prepared for the call, give it, and see that he responds with acceptable promptness. This for children near the age of three.

When children of older age say, "No, I don't want to," wait a while before exploding in wrath upon their heads. Give the necessary directions and then busy yourself with some unessential matter so that the child feels that you do not consider this a drawn battle. Feeling no opposition he is likely to withdraw his own. He cannot oppose a harmonious atmosphere to save his tempestuous soul. The very notion of your withdrawal is sufficient to send him off to do his job.

Sometimes this does not work. He feels the need of responses from you. His mind must meet opposition, must feel resistance in order to gather power. Missing this resistance, which ought to come to him in his play with other children, he turns to the adult for it.

Don't mistake the situation and smite him in anger. Look at him benignly, from the height of your understanding years, and say, "Very well, you needn't," and act as if you really didn't care. By and by this lack of opposition reduces him to complacency. Force will only strengthen his desire to resist. Normal healthy children like to follow leadership. Unhealthy, lonely, neglected children rebel and say NO to symbolize their unhappiness. It is usually a cry for help and understanding, not for punishment, at this age.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
